An art frame is a frame structure used to frame and protect paintings. Not only do they provide decorative and aesthetic appeal, they also protect paintings from the elements and damage. As awareness of sustainability increases, picture frame manufacturers are likely to use more sustainable and eco-friendly materials and reduce their reliance on natural resources. When it comes to protection, frame manufacturers may use more advanced materials that offer better UV, scratch, and moisture resistance. The use of digital technology may change the functionality of the frame, for example some frames may have built-in digital screens to display digital artwork or change the image displayed.
