The research report highlights the growth potential of the global Automatic Dependent Surveillance Broadcast (ADS-B) market. Automatic Dependent Surveillance Broadcast (ADS-B) are expected to show stable growth in the future market. However, product differentiation, reducing costs, and supply chain optimization remain crucial for the widespread adoption of Automatic Dependent Surveillance Broadcast (ADS-B). Market players need to invest in research and development, forge strategic partnerships, and align their offerings with evolving consumer preferences to capitalize on the immense opportunities presented by the Automatic Dependent Surveillance Broadcast (ADS-B) market.

Automatic dependent surveillance — broadcast (ADS-B) is a surveillance technology in which an aircraft determines its position via satellite navigation and periodically broadcasts it, enabling it to be tracked. The information can be received by air traffic control ground stations as a replacement for secondary surveillance radar, as no interrogation signal is needed from the ground. It can also be received by other aircraft to provide situational awareness and allow self-separation.

Among all types, the ADS-B In segment is projected to grow at the highest CAGR from 2018 to 2023. This growth is mainly driven by additional safety features and situational awareness that ADS-B In provides to aircraft pilots.
