The global Bartacking Machine market size is predicted to grow from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2026 to 2032.

A bartack machine is a device used to perform bartacks on fabrics, also known as loom accessories or knitting machine accessories. Tacking is a method of forming a loop structure at the edge or seam of fabric. It is often used in making clothing, home textiles and other fabric products to enhance the strength and beauty of the edge. Tacking machines are usually used to tack on the edges or seams of fabrics to prevent the fabric edges from loosening or cracking. They can be tacked in different ways, such as manual operation, semi-automatic or fully automatic operation, depending on the design and functionality of the machine. During bartack machine operation, fabric is placed on the machine and then, through the action of the machine, bartacks are formed at the edges or seams of the fabric. This bartack can be single-sided or double-sided, depending on the desired bartack effect and use. Bartacking machines play an important role in the textile industry, improving production efficiency and reducing manual labor while ensuring the quality and beauty of fabric edges.
