Beeswax wrap is an eco-friendly alternative to plastic wrap, used for food storage. Made from organic cotton fabric coated with a blend of beeswax, tree resin, and jojoba oil, these wraps are pliable, reusable, and naturally antibacterial. They can be molded around food items or over containers using the warmth of your hands to create a seal, keeping food fresh without relying on single-use plastics. Beeswax wraps are breathable, which helps preserve the freshness of produce, cheese, bread, and other perishables. They can be washed with cool water and mild soap, allowing for repeated use, making them a sustainable choice for reducing plastic waste in the kitchen.
