Bempedoic acid products refer to medications that contain bempedoic acid, a novel oral agent designed to lower LDL cholesterol levels in patients with hyperlipidemia. Bempedoic acid works by inhibiting ATP-citrate lyase, an enzyme involved in cholesterol biosynthesis in the liver, which leads to decreased cholesterol production and increased uptake of LDL cholesterol from the bloodstream. It is typically prescribed for patients who cannot achieve target LDL cholesterol levels with statins alone or who are statin-intolerant. Bempedoic acid can be used alone or in combination with other cholesterol-lowering medications to enhance lipid management and reduce cardiovascular risk.
