Beverages Bag-in-Box (BIB) is a packaging system designed for the efficient storage and dispensing of various beverages, including juices, wines, soft drinks, and syrups. This system comprises a flexible, multi-layered plastic bag placed inside a sturdy, corrugated cardboard box. The bag, which often includes an integrated tap or valve, collapses as the beverage is dispensed, preventing air from entering and thereby preserving the freshness and extending the shelf life of the contents. Beverages Bag-in-Box packaging is popular in both commercial and consumer markets due to its cost-effectiveness, ease of use, reduced waste, and excellent product protection during transportation and storage.
