Biodegradable liquid soap refers to a type of cleansing product formulated with ingredients that can break down naturally through the action of microorganisms, such as bacteria and fungi, in environmental conditions like soil, water, or compost. Unlike conventional soaps that may contain non-biodegradable synthetic chemicals, it prioritizes eco-friendly surfactants (often derived from plant oils or renewable sources), natural additives, and minimal synthetic compounds to ensure it decomposes without leaving harmful residues. Designed to balance cleansing efficacy with environmental responsibility, it is widely used in personal care, household cleaning, and industrial applications, offering a sustainable alternative that reduces pollution and aligns with green living principles.
