Blacktop coating, also known as asphalt coating or asphalt sealer, refers to a protective layer applied to asphalt surfaces, such as driveways, parking lots, and roadways, to enhance their durability, appearance, and resistance to environmental factors. This coating serves as a protective barrier, preventing water penetration, minimizing damage from UV rays, and reducing the effects of chemical exposure and regular wear and tear.

The increasing demand for environmentally friendly and sustainable blacktop coatings, formulated with low volatile organic compound (VOC) content and eco-friendly additives, was driving the development of green alternatives, aligning with the industry's focus on sustainable construction practices and environmental responsibility.
