Abstracts

The report requires updating with new data and is sent in 48 hours after order is placed.

The juice of all grape varieties is white. The red coloration usually comes from the red grape skins, which contain pigments. When the grapes are pressed with their skins during fermentation, these colors leach into the wine giving it the traditional red hue. When producing Blanc de Noir wine, the winemaker removes the dark grape skins after the fruit has been pressed. This way, the clear grape juice ferments separately and produces white sparkling wine.
