BRC Food Certification Service: BRC food certification service refers to a specialized assessment and certification process offered by certification bodies to help food businesses achieve compliance with the British Retail Consortium (BRC) Global Standards for Food Safety.

The BRC food certification service involves a thorough inspection and evaluation of a food manufacturer's processes, systems, and products against the BRC Global Standards. These standards outline various requirements for food safety, quality management, production processes, and legal compliance.

During the certification process, trained auditors conduct on-site visits to assess the facility, examine records, and conduct interviews with employees. They evaluate critical areas such as food safety management systems, risk assessment, hazard analysis, traceability, and control of allergens, among others.
