Abstracts

The global Button Hook & Zipper Pull market size is predicted to grow from US$ 73.96 million in 2025 to US$ 132 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 8.8% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2024, the global production of button hook & zipper pull was estimated at 5-10 million units, with an average selling price of approximately $3-20 per unit and a gross profit margin of about 50%. Single-line production capacity was estimated at 300,000-1 million units per year. Essentially, a button and zipper assistive tool is a zipper pull accessory with a button lock. By providing mechanical levers, extended handles, or special hook designs, it compensates for users' deficiencies in hand dexterity, grip strength, and fine motor coordination, enabling them to put on and take off clothing with buttons and zippers without assistance. The upstream of this product category mainly consists of raw material suppliers such as plastic particles, metal materials, and textile tapes; the midstream involves design and manufacturing, including rehabilitation equipment companies, injection molding plants, and assembly plants, responsible for transforming these raw materials into finished products; and the downstream reaches consumers through channels such as medical device stores, rehabilitation assistive device specialty stores, online e-commerce platforms, and elderly care institutions. The core demand stems from the aging population and the patient population. It provides solutions for users who have difficulty performing fine motor skills such as buttoning buttons and zipping due to hand arthritis, stroke sequelae, muscle weakness or decreased flexibility, so as to maintain their ability to dress themselves and protect their personal dignity and quality of life. This is a rigid demand in the rehabilitation aids market.
