Abstracts

The global Cannabis Food and Beverage market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1250 million in 2025 to US$ 5062 million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 26.2% from 2025 to 2031.

The impact of the latest U.S. tariff measures and the corresponding policy responses from countries worldwide on market competitiveness, regional economic performance, and supply chain configurations will be comprehensively evaluated in this report.

Several food and beverages are being prepared from Cannabis since last few years. Cannabis edible, or a cannabis-infused food is a type food product that contains cannabinoids, especially tetrahydrocannabinol THC or CBD. Most edibles that are made from cannabis contain a noticeable amount of THC, which induces a wide range of health effects, including relaxation, increased appetite, euphoria, anxiety, and fatigue. THC or CBD infused edibles food items are consumed for medical and recreational purposes. Food and beverages that are made by using non-psychoactive cannabis are called hemp foods. Cannabis-infused baked good is a common type of cannabis food.

The food market includes both fresh and processed foods. According to our research, the global food and beverage market has a sales revenue of approximately US$10 trillion. China is the world's number one food and beverage market and the world's number one food and beverage producer. In the market drivers section, the total consumer spending forecast shows that consumption at home is growing faster than consumption away from home. However, food service continues to become increasingly important due to changing lifestyles. In addition, the rise of private label brands is putting pressure on the margins of brand manufacturers as retailers compete for a higher share of product sales.
