The global Capsule Polisher for Hard Capsule market size is predicted to grow from US$ 763 million in 2025 to US$ 1267 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 7.4% from 2026 to 2032.

Capsule Polisher for Hard Capsules is a pharmaceutical manufacturing machine designed to remove dust, powder residue, and surface imperfections from hard gelatin or HPMC capsules after filling. It improves capsule appearance, cleanliness, and quality consistency while ensuring compliance with pharmaceutical production standards. The machine is widely used in pharmaceutical factories, contract manufacturing organizations, and nutraceutical production lines to enhance product quality and packaging efficiency. The industrial chain of Capsule Polisher for Hard Capsules includes upstream stainless steel materials, precision mechanical components, electric motors, polishing brushes, and control systems. The midstream consists of pharmaceutical equipment manufacturers that design and assemble capsule polishing machines integrated with dust collection and sorting systems. Downstream applications include pharmaceutical manufacturers, nutraceutical companies, contract manufacturing organizations (CMOs), and dietary supplement producers. Supporting services include equipment validation, maintenance, cleaning system optimization, and regulatory compliance support to ensure GMP-standard production quality and efficiency. In 2025, global Capsule Polisher for Hard Capsules production reached approximately 20,526 units, with an average global market price of around US$38,000 per unit. The gross profit margin of major companies in the industry is between 30%-50%. In 2025, the global production capacity of Capsule Polisher for Hard Capsules was approximately 27,368 units.

The capsule polisher market for hard capsules is growing steadily due to increasing pharmaceutical production and rising demand for high-quality oral solid dosage forms. As regulatory standards such as GMP become stricter, manufacturers are placing greater emphasis on capsule appearance, cleanliness, and contamination control. The expansion of nutraceutical and dietary supplement industries is also contributing to higher equipment demand, particularly in small and medium-scale production facilities. Automation and integration with capsule filling and sorting systems are improving production efficiency and reducing manual handling. In addition, the adoption of stainless steel hygienic designs and advanced dust collection systems is enhancing compliance and operational safety. Overall, the market is evolving toward more automated, compact, and high-efficiency polishing systems that support large-scale pharmaceutical manufacturing and diversified capsule production needs across global healthcare industries.
