The sports seat is specially designed for the dynamic reflection of the body and the human body at high speed. Therefore, the two parts of the seat back and the seat cushion are specially strengthened, so that the waist/shoulder and back on both sides of the human body can have good lateral support. , The rigidity of the seat itself has also been strengthened, so it can effectively counteract the centrifugal force generated by the lateral acceleration when turning, and can more accurately feel the grip of the tires and the road surface, so that the driver can accurately control the vehicle .
