A cargo sling is a bag-shaped tool used for carrying cargo. It is typically hoisted with a crane or similar equipment and is utilized in various fields like construction, civil engineering, agriculture, fishery, and landscaping. A cargo sling comprises a belt and seat. Items to be transported are placed in the net portion and lifted using equipment like a crane. Different cargo sling types are available, varying in sheet material, belt length, and load capacity.

Cargo slings are employed in numerous industries, including construction, civil engineering, agriculture, and fishing, for transporting materials such as rocks, soil, snow, or marine products. Choosing the right cargo sling for the specific application is crucial. They are not suited for objects with unstable centers of gravity, and caution is needed when transporting sharp objects or those that may tear the sheet. When carrying snow or soil, the sling can become heavy due to water absorption. Thus, waterproof cargo slings are also available.

United States market for Cargo Sling is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.
