A CDL/CDLF vertical multistage centrifugal pump is a type of pump designed for high-pressure fluid transfer in various industrial applications. It is widely used for the pumping of clean or slightly polluted liquids, such as water, chemical liquids, and oil. The CDL/CDLF pump consists of multiple impellers stacked on a common shaft, which allows for boosting the pressure of the fluid as it passes through each impeller. This multistage configuration enables the pump to generate higher pressures compared to single-stage pumps. The 'CDL' designation typically refers to a pump with a horizontal inlet and vertical outlet, while 'CDLF' generally indicates a pump with a vertical inlet and outlet. These pumps are available in various sizes and materials to suit different operational requirements. The CDL/CDLF vertical multistage centrifugal pump is known for its compact size, high efficiency, quiet operation, and reliability. It is commonly used in systems that require pressurized fluid, such as water supply and distribution, irrigation, industrial processes, and boiler feed applications.
