A chain gate is an automatic parking gate with a chain tensioning system. The chain is automatically lowered just before a car passes through and is automatically raised after the car has passed through. A chain gate is operated by a remote control, and the owner of the building where the chain gate is installed, such as a house, automatically opens and closes the chain gate. In this way, only the owner of the house, who is the owner of the remote control, can enter and exit the gate, thus preventing the entry of vehicles from outside the department.
