A Chatbot (called bot for short) is a computer program designed to mimic conversation with human users on the internet, according to Oxford Dictionaries. Using robotics and Artificial Intelligence (AI), a chatbot can assist customers without the need for a customer service agent on the other end. Chatbots can range from simple to highly intelligent depending on how they are programmed. A rules-based chatbot can only handle very specific commands, while a chatbot that uses machine learning will get smarter with each interaction.
