This report studies the Chilled Fresh Pasta market, which is normal food in Indian life.

The transportation and preservation of pasta is one of the main problems facing the market expansion. More tender and lighter in texture than its dried counterpart, fresh pasta is traditionally tossed with sauces that include cream and butter. Fresh pasta can be stored in the refrigerator for 2 or 3 days. If the pasta will not be used within that time, it can be frozen and stored in the freezer for 2 to 3 months. Homemade pasta can be store in the refrigerator for 1 or 2 days or frozen for 2 to 3 months. Homemade pasta can also be allowed to dry thoroughly and then placed in a plastic bag or airtight container. Developing better preservation technology will become the core competitiveness of suppliers. Europe is the largest consumer of Fresh Pasta. Also, it is the fastest growing region in the industry due to a good business environment and traditional cultural inheritance.
