Abstracts

The global Collections Insurance market size is predicted to grow from US$ 19565 million in 2025 to US$ 27825 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.2% from 2026 to 2032.

Collections Insurance (also known as Collectibles Insurance) is a specialized form of property coverage tailored for high-value, rare, and appreciative assets, including fine art, luxury timepieces, antiques, coins, fine wine, and sports memorabilia. Unlike standard homeowners' insurance, which often imposes restrictive sub-limits on "valuables," collections insurance provides "All-Risk" protection that encompasses accidental breakage, mysterious disappearance, theft, and transit-related perils. A defining feature of these policies is the "Agreed Value" clause, where the insurer and the policyholder establish the asset's worth upfront based on professional appraisals, ensuring that total loss settlements are not affected by market volatility or depreciation. By 2026, premier policies also offer Diminution of Value coverage, which compensates for the loss in a collectible's market value even after professional restoration has been performed.

United States market for Collections Insurance is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.

China market for Collections Insurance is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.

Europe market for Collections Insurance is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.

Global key Collections Insurance players cover AXA, Chubb, Helvetia, Markel Specialty, NSM Insurance Group, etc. In terms of revenue, the global two largest companies occupied for a share nearly % in 2025.
