The global Commercial Turpentine Oil market size is predicted to grow from US$ 4608 million in 2025 to US$ 5088 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 1.5% from 2026 to 2032.

Commercial Turpentine Oil is a co-product of the rosin refining process, and for every 1 ton of rosin produced, approximately 0.13-0.25 tons of turpentine can also be obtained at the same time. Commercial Turpentine Oil is a liquid mixture of terpenes, mainly α -pinene and β -pinene, with a distinctive aromatic odor that has been used to synthesize natural fragrances or as natural medicines and natural solvents.

The demand for commercial turpentine can vary in different regions. For example, Asia Pacific is likely to see increased demand for commercial turpentine because of the growing industrial and consumer markets in the region. As technology advances and environmental regulations are enacted, some alternative products may replace commercial turpentine applications, such as water-based paints and solvents. The emergence of these substitutes may adversely affect the commercial turpentine market.
