A corporate power purchase agreement (PPA) is a contract between a corporation and a power producer, typically a renewable energy generator like a wind farm or solar plant. It serves as a strategic tool for corporations aiming to meet their energy needs in a more sustainable and cost - effective way. Through a PPA, the corporation agrees to purchase a certain amount of electricity, often at a pre - determined price over a specified period, usually ranging from 10 - 20 years. This long - term commitment provides stability for both parties. For the power producer, it offers a guaranteed revenue stream, which helps in financing and operating the energy project. For the corporation, it enables access to clean energy, contributing to its environmental, social, and governance (ESG) goals, such as reducing carbon emissions. Additionally, it can hedge against potential price fluctuations in the energy market, allowing for better financial planning. Many large companies across various industries, from technology to manufacturing, are increasingly turning to corporate PPAs as part of their overall energy management and sustainability strategies, driving the growth of the renewable energy sector in the process.
