Dairy replacer are the food ingredients which are used in food products in place of dairy products. Most of the dairy replacer are the plant-based ingredients which are produced from the plant source. The trend of veganism and health-related concerns such as lactose intolerance are the primary factor which has created the market for dairy replacer. The substitute for dairy products include-soy milk, almond milk, rice milk, cashew milk, corn milk, yeast and many more. Soy milk has been the most popular dairy replacer as its nutrition resemblance to cow's milk. Calcium content in hemp milk is found more beneficial than dairy milk. Nutritional yeast is an alternative of cheese. Additionally, consumers have started the consumption of olive oil instead of dairy butter due to its high saturated fat content. Lots of dairy-free yogurts are made from soy milk or nuts milk.
