This report mainly focuses on database security audits services market. Database security audit service refers to a type of information security service that continuously monitors, records, analyzes and reviews various operational behaviors in the database system to discover potential security threats, illegal access behaviors, operational risks or data leakage incidents, and assist organizations in meeting compliance requirements.

The database security audit service market is developing rapidly. The main driving force comes from the frequent occurrence of data leakage incidents and the increasingly stringent laws and regulations (such as GDPR, CCPA, etc.), which have continuously increased the requirements for corporate compliance, and promoted the need for enterprises to conduct continuous audits of database access behaviors. In addition, with the acceleration of cloud computing and digital transformation, database deployment has become increasingly complex, and internal threats and external attacks coexist, further exacerbating the dependence on security audit services. Especially in highly sensitive industries such as finance, medical care, and government, database security audits have become an important part of the information security system. However, the market still faces multiple challenges, such as complex audit system integration, high costs, possible system performance loss caused by audit tools, and high false alarm rates. At the same time, the rapid iteration of technology and the shortage of professional talents also place higher demands on service providers.
