Abstracts

The report requires updating with new data and is sent in 48 hours after order is placed.

The resin material for dental restoration is a synthetic material, usually composite resin. This material mainly consists of one or more resin matrices and fillers. Composite resin is widely used to repair teeth, including repairing caries on the tooth surface, repairing tooth defects, and improving the shape and color of teeth.

Composite resin has a color similar to natural teeth and can match the patient's teeth to provide a more aesthetically pleasing restoration. It also has good bonding properties and can bond tightly with tooth tissue to provide a stable restoration. In addition, the use of composite resin materials is relatively flexible and can be used for direct repair (that is, directly manipulating the material in the oral cavity to complete the repair) or indirect repair (by making a tooth model, preparing the restoration and then implanting it in the oral cavity).

The global Dental Restorative Resin Materials market size is projected to grow from US$ million in 2023 to US$ million in 2030; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2024 to 2030.
