Abstracts

The global Disposable Oral Cleaning Brush market size is predicted to grow from US$ 533 million in 2025 to US$ 776 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.6% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2024, the global production of disposable oral cleaning brushes will reach 1034.4 million units, with an average selling price of US$0.5 per unit. A disposable oral cleaning brush is a single-use consumable designed for daily oral cleaning and care. It is commonly used in hospitals, nursing homes, dental clinics, and home personal care settings. Its main function is to help clean teeth, gums, tongue coating, and oral mucosal surfaces, remove food debris and soft plaque, reduce bacterial growth, and prevent oral odor and infection. Compared with traditional toothbrushes, its brush head is softer and less likely to irritate the mouth. It is suitable for patients who have undergone surgery, are bedridden for a long time, have limited mobility, or cannot rinse their mouths. It is also widely used in oral care for patients in intensive care units and undergoing radiotherapy and chemotherapy. The product usually consists of a disposable plastic brush handle and a soft sponge or foam brush head. Some products are pre-soaked with toothpaste, chlorhexidine, or cleaning solution, making it easy to use and preventing cross-infection.

The industry chain of disposable oral cleaning brushes can be summarized as follows: the upstream mainly includes suppliers of bristle materials (nylon, polyester fiber, etc.), plastic handle raw materials (polypropylene, polyethylene), packaging materials and additives, such as Dupont (nylon fiber), BASF (plastic raw materials), and 3M (bristle and small parts materials); the midstream is the disposable oral cleaning brush manufacturer, responsible for bristle implantation, handle injection molding and packaging processing; the downstream is the terminal application industry, including dental clinics, oral care institutions, public health places such as hotels/airlines/trains, and the retail consumer market. Typical distribution channels are e-commerce platforms (Amazon, Tmall), offline supermarkets, pharmacies and professional medical consumables suppliers. The upstream materials of the entire industry chain are mature and stable, while production processes and cost control are key competitive factors in the midstream. The downstream market offers a wide range of applications and stable demand.

United States market for Disposable Oral Cleaning Brush is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.

China market for Disposable Oral Cleaning Brush is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.
