Diving services refer to a range of professional services related to underwater diving. These services are typically provided by trained and certified divers who have expertise in various diving techniques and equipment. Some common diving services include:

1. Commercial Diving: Commercial divers are employed to perform various tasks underwater, such as underwater welding, construction, inspection, maintenance, and repair of underwater structures like bridges, dams, oil rigs, and pipelines.

2. Scientific Diving: Scientific divers conduct research and collect data underwater for scientific purposes. They may study marine ecosystems, conduct underwater surveys, collect samples, and monitor underwater environments.

3. Recreational Diving: Recreational diving services are offered to individuals who want to explore underwater environments for leisure and enjoyment. This includes guided diving tours, scuba diving lessons, equipment rental, and dive trips to popular dive sites.

4. Underwater Photography and Videography: Divers with specialized skills in underwater photography and videography offer services to capture stunning images and videos of marine life, underwater landscapes, and underwater events like weddings or film shoots.

5. Search and Recovery: Divers trained in search and recovery techniques assist in locating and retrieving lost objects or bodies underwater. This service is often utilized in cases of underwater accidents, crime investigations, or salvage operations.

6. Underwater Construction and Engineering: Divers with expertise in underwater construction and engineering are involved in the installation, maintenance, and repair of underwater structures like underwater cables, offshore wind farms, and underwater habitats.

7. Underwater Archaeology: Divers specializing in underwater archaeology explore and excavate submerged archaeological sites, shipwrecks, and artifacts to study and preserve historical and cultural heritage.

8. Underwater Inspection and Surveys: Divers conduct underwater inspections and surveys to assess the condition of underwater structures, marine vessels, or underwater installations. This service is often utilized in industries like shipping, oil and gas, and marine infrastructure.
