DMPT (Dimethyl 3-thiopropionate) feed attractants are synthetic compounds known for their strong fish-attracting properties. These attractants are widely used in aquaculture to enhance feed uptake among fish species, particularly in challenging feeding conditions. DMPT mimics natural feeding cues, stimulating appetite and promoting foraging behavior. The inclusion of DMPT in feed formulations can lead to improved growth performance and feed efficiency. Its effectiveness makes it a popular choice among aquaculture producers looking to optimize feeding strategies.
