Dominoes are a series of card-based games played with rectangular 'domino' cards. Each domino is a rectangular tile with a line that divides its face into two square ends. Each end is marked with a certain number of spots (also called dots, nips, or DOBS) or empty. The backs of the dominoes in a set are indistinguishable, either blank or some universal design. Domino game parts make up a domino combination, sometimes called a deck or backpack. Traditional Central European domino combinations include 28 dominoes, which are characterized by all combinations of points between zero and six. A domino set is a universal gaming device, similar to a solitaire or dice, because a group of games can play multiple games.
