Abstracts

The global Dry Hanging Adhesive market size is predicted to grow from US$ 574 million in 2025 to US$ 798 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 4.9% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2025, global sales of Dry Hanging Adhesive reached approximately 139.60 k tons, with an average market price of about USD 4.20 kg, an annual production capacity of roughly 160 k tons, and an industry-average gross margin of approximately 42%.

Dry Hanging Adhesives are two-component, reaction-curing construction adhesives formulated with an epoxy resin component and a compatible hardener component containing amine or other curing agents, toughening agents, mineral fillers, thixotropic modifiers and functional additives. After the two components are mixed at a specified ratio, the system crosslinks to form a rigid, high-strength and dimensionally stable bond. The subject of this study focuses on products designed to secure natural marble, granite, limestone, engineered stone, large ceramic panels and sintered stone to stainless-steel or aluminium hangers, anchors, backing panels, concrete and other rigid substrates. Commercial formats commonly include paired pails, two-can kits, twin cartridges and pre-metered packages. Key product characteristics include high thixotropy, non-sag performance on vertical or overhead surfaces, gap-filling capability, high tensile-shear and compression-shear bond strength, low curing shrinkage, water resistance, temperature-cycle resistance, ageing durability and adhesion to both mineral and metallic substrates. Major applications include dry-fixed stone curtain walls, vertical spot bonding of stone panels, interior and exterior stone cladding, backing-panel bonding and other architectural installations requiring durable stone-to-metal or stone-to-mineral bonding.
