The global Enterprise Records Management Services market size is predicted to grow from US$ 5694 million in 2025 to US$ 8003 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.0% from 2026 to 2032.

Enterprise records management services refer to the systematic, standardized and electronic management of various records, documents and data generated during the operation of an enterprise through professional means and methods to ensure the integrity, accuracy, security and accessibility of these records, thereby supporting the daily operations, decision-making analysis, legal compliance and long-term development of the enterprise.

The growth of the enterprise records management service market is primarily driven by corporate compliance and retention requirements, vast volumes of existing paper archives, stricter industry regulations, the need to reduce costs through outsourcing, and the digital transformation of records. Sectors such as finance, healthcare, law, government, education, energy, and large corporate groups generate massive quantities of contracts, vouchers, medical records, audit materials, personnel files, engineering documents, and legal papers during daily operations. These records often require long-term preservation in accordance with regulations or internal policies and must be rapidly retrievable for audits, litigation, regulatory inspections, and business traceability. Compared to in-house archiving, third-party records management services offer specialized capabilities including off-site storage, access control, climate control, fire and theft protection, retrieval and delivery, on-demand scanning, secure destruction upon expiration, and compliance certification thereby helping clients reduce facility, labor, and management costs. Furthermore, corporate digital transformation has not eliminated paper archives; instead, it has spurred an upgrade from simple paper storage to integrated services encompassing storage, scanning, electronic indexing, and lifecycle management, propelling the industry to evolve from traditional document-box warehousing toward information governance and end-to-end records management.
