Abstracts

According to this study, the global Environmental and Social Due Diligence Service market size will reach US$ 1038 million by 2031.

Environmental and social due diligence service is a comprehensive professional services designed to comprehensively assess a company's performance and potential risks in terms of environmental and social responsibility. Through a systematic investigation method, this service conducts in-depth analysis of a company's actual situation in terms of environmental protection, labor rights, community relations, supply chain management, anti-corruption and compliance. Environmental due diligence focuses on a company's pollution emissions, environmental protection measures, environmental management systems, etc., in order to identify and manage environmental risks; social due diligence focuses on assessing a company's fulfillment of its responsibilities to stakeholders such as employees, communities, and supply chain partners, as well as the company's compliance and ethical standards. By providing detailed investigation reports and improvement suggestions, environmental and social due diligence services help companies reduce operating risks, enhance sustainable development capabilities, and enhance the trust of investors and consumers.
