Abstracts

The global Flexible Corrugated Metal Hose market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1033 million in 2025 to US$ 1307 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 3.7% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2025, global Flexible Corrugated Metal Hose production reached approximately 480,000 k meters with an average global market price of around US$ 2.2 per meter, and a gross profit margin of approximately 10%-30%. Flexible Corrugated Metal Hose is a metallic, corrugated, flexible conduit used to convey liquids or gases while accommodating vibration, thermal expansion, and installation misalignment. It typically consists of a thin-wall corrugated tube that provides flexibility and a braided reinforcement layer that improves pressure resistance and fatigue life. End fittings are attached for connection to piping, valves, pumps, or equipment ports. Compared with rubber hoses, it offers better temperature capability, chemical resistance, and fire safety, making it suitable for industrial, energy, transportation, and high-reliability fluid transfer. The industrial chain of Flexible Corrugated Metal Hose includes upstream stainless strip/tube materials, forming rolls, welding consumables, braiding wire, end fittings, ferrules, gaskets, protective sleeves, and testing equipment. Midstream processes cover tube forming and corrugation, seam welding, braiding, fitting assembly, pressure and leak testing, burst and fatigue validation, cleaning, and packaging. Downstream applications include petrochemical and chemical plants, power and HVAC systems, shipbuilding, rail and automotive fluid lines, semiconductor utilities, and general industrial equipment. Supporting services include design selection, installation guidance, inspection, and replacement to ensure safety and long service life.
