A Floor Mounted Fan Coil Unit is a heating and cooling system component commonly used in HVAC (Heating, Ventilation, and Air Conditioning) systems. It is designed to be installed on or near the floor of a building and serves as a terminal unit for delivering conditioned air to a room or space.

The core of the fan coil unit is the coil assembly. It consists of a heat exchanger coil, which can be either a heating coil or a cooling coil, depending on the system's mode of operation. This coil is responsible for transferring thermal energy to or from the air passing through it. Fan coil units are connected to the building's central heating and cooling system through pipes. Control valves regulate the flow of hot or cold water to the coil, allowing precise temperature control.
