Abstracts

According to this study, the global Foreign Trade Digital Service market size will reach US$ 3689 million by 2031.

Foreign trade digital services refer to a comprehensive service model that uses digital technology and platforms to provide full-process, full-link support and empowerment for enterprises in international trade. It integrates resources such as big data, cloud computing, artificial intelligence, cross-border e-commerce platforms, online payments, smart logistics, digital marketing, overseas warehousing and supply chain finance to help enterprises achieve efficient collaboration and digital management from market research, customer acquisition, product display, cross-border transactions, logistics tracking to after-sales service. Especially for manufacturing companies that need to quickly adapt to changes in the international market and enhance export competitiveness, foreign trade digital services are no longer auxiliary tools, but one of the core capabilities to participate in global competition. Just as in the export of precision manufacturing or high-performance materials such as compact aluminum-clad steel stranded wire, digital service platforms can significantly improve order response speed, supply chain transparency and customer satisfaction, and accelerate the entry of high value-added products into the global market.

United States market for Foreign Trade Digital Service is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.
