Automatic wash systems do not require any personnel at the dirty side for loading wash ware into the flight-type dishwashers. They consist of an automatic separating unit, a FTNi flight-type dishwasher for trays and cutlery, and an extra-wide FTNi flight-type dishwasher with a separate belt track for bowls and plates.

The Fully Automatic Dishwasher market is driven by the growing demand for time-saving and convenient household appliances, coupled with changing consumer lifestyles. Fully automatic dishwashers offer an efficient and hassle-free way to clean dishes, reducing manual effort and water consumption. The rise in dual-income households and urbanization contributes to market growth as consumers seek appliances that help manage daily chores more effectively. Moreover, technological advancements in dishwasher features and energy efficiency align with improved user experiences and reduced environmental impact. However, the market also faces challenges, including initial purchase costs and the need for effective marketing to create awareness among potential customers. Additionally, addressing concerns related to water and energy consumption, as well as accommodating different kitchen layouts, can pose obstacles for manufacturers. To succeed, companies must focus on affordability, education about water and energy savings, and innovation to meet consumer expectations while addressing the challenges in creating a broader adoption of fully automatic dishwashers in households around the world.
