Galfan steel tubes are made from steel coated with a zinc-aluminum alloy (approximately 95% zinc and 5% aluminum), providing superior corrosion resistance compared to standard galvanized tubes. These tubes are commonly used in industries such as construction, automotive, and infrastructure where durability in harsh environments is essential. The Galfan coating not only offers excellent edge protection but also enhances the tube's longevity, making it a cost-effective solution for applications requiring high performance. With growing emphasis on sustainability, Galfan steel tubes are becoming a preferred choice in areas requiring long-lasting, rust-resistant materials.
