Abstracts

According to this study, the global Game Overseas Marketing market size will reach US$ 4402 million by 2031.

Game overseas marketing refers to a comprehensive marketing strategy to promote game products to overseas markets, covering localization, user acquisition, content dissemination, data analysis and compliance management. It needs to combine the cultural and channel differences of various countries, and flexibly use advertising, social media operations, KOL cooperation and other means to achieve efficient traffic and user conversion.

In recent years, the overseas development of games has shown a diversified development trend. Emerging markets such as Southeast Asia, the Middle East and Latin America have risen rapidly, and short videos and live broadcast platforms have become core customer acquisition channels. At the same time, AI technology is improving advertising efficiency and localization levels, helping companies reach target users more accurately. Overall, overseas marketing is evolving towards a more refined and intelligent direction.
