The global Gardening Net market size is predicted to grow from US$ 453 million in 2025 to US$ 582 million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 4.3% from 2025 to 2031.

A gardening net is an agricultural material primarily used for supporting the growth of vine plants, such as cucumbers, gourds, and Morning Glory, which climb and spread their vines. Gardening nets facilitate vine growth by providing a structure for the plants to wrap around, allowing them to absorb light more efficiently. By supporting the vines, gardening nets help maintain plant balance and prevent collapse.

Gardening nets aid in the proper growth of vine plants within a defined area. They contribute to environmental conservation by reducing carbon dioxide emissions and enhancing sustainable food cycles. One drawback is the cost and limited use of gardening nets. They require time and effort to set up and maintain and are typically used only for their intended purpose.
