The global Geosynthetic Bentonite Liner market size is predicted to grow from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2026 to 2032.

Geosynthetic Bentonite Liner (GBL) is a type of geosynthetic material that is commonly used in the construction of landfills, ponds, and other containment systems. It is made up of a layer of bentonite clay sandwiched between two layers of geotextile fabric. The bentonite clay in the GBL swells when it comes into contact with water, creating a barrier that prevents water from passing through.

GBLs are used in a variety of applications where water containment is necessary. They are often used in landfill construction to prevent leachate from contaminating the surrounding soil and groundwater. They are also used in the construction of ponds and other water containment structures.
