Abstracts

The global Glass Nail File market size is predicted to grow from US$ 66.52 million in 2025 to US$ 95.30 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.3% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2025, global glass nail file sales reached approximately 35.1 million pieces, with an average selling price of about US$1.94 per piece. A glass nail file is a manual nail-care tool made primarily from glass, with a filing or polishing surface formed through chemical etching, precision micro-patterning, particle-based abrasive treatment, or similar surface-processing technologies. Common product forms include edge-filing glass nail files, nail surface shiners, and dual-function glass nail files. Their fine, durable, washable, and reusable working surfaces help shape nail length and contours, smooth nail edges, and, in selected products, polish the nail surface to create a natural shine. These products are mainly used in household personal nail care, professional nail salons, and other nail-care settings.

Market growth is mainly driven by consumers' increasing preference for durable, washable, and reusable personal-care tools, together with the substitution of disposable emery boards by longer-lasting glass alternatives. The expansion of at-home manicure routines, professional nail salons, beauty e-commerce, and private-label nail-care brands is widening product availability. Continued improvements in chemical etching, precision micro-patterning, tempering, decorative printing, and customized packaging are also supporting higher-value product development, while compact travel formats and dual-function filing and polishing designs are attracting broader consumer group
