The global Green Bond market size is predicted to grow from US$ 27700 million in 2025 to US$ 39570 million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.1% from 2025 to 2031.

A green bond is a type of debt instrument specifically designed to raise capital for projects that have environmental benefits, aligning with the global push for sustainable development and environmental stewardship; its necessity lies in the ability to channel funds into critical sectors such as clean transportation and renewable energy, which are essential for improving environmental quality and fostering green economic growth; these bonds are characterized by their dedicated use of proceeds and stringent oversight, with a significant portion of green bond investments directed towards sectors like clean transportation and clean energy, reflecting a commitment to sustainability; the advantage of green bonds is that they attract investment for eco-friendly and sustainable initiatives, often with higher credit ratings that can lower borrowing costs, thereby accelerating the adoption of green technologies and driving long-term economic health while delivering environmental benefits, in line with international policies that promote green financing and sustainable practices.

United States market for Green Bond is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.

China market for Green Bond is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.
