HDPE steel wire mesh composite pipe is a reinforced composite pipe made of high-density polyethylene (HDPE) as the inner and outer layers, with a steel wire mesh skeleton embedded in the middle. By combining the pressure-bearing properties of the steel wire layer with the corrosion protection of the polyethylene layer, it combines high strength, corrosion resistance, and flexibility. It is widely used in long-distance pipeline projects such as oil and gas, municipal water supply and drainage, and industrial high-pressure transportation.
