Abstracts

The global Herbal Extract Health Products market size is predicted to grow from US$ 50600 million in 2025 to US$ 75730 million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 7.0% from 2025 to 2031.

Herbal extract health products are dietary supplements or medicinal products that contain active compounds derived from plants through an extraction process. These products are formulated to provide health benefits based on the traditional use of herbs, their historical medicinal properties, and modern scientific research. Herbal extracts are concentrated forms of specific plant compounds, which may include phytochemicals, antioxidants, essential oils, and other bioactive substances.

Increased demand for transparency and traceability in the herbal supplement industry, with a focus on the sourcing, quality, and origins of botanical ingredients. Companies are expected to provide clear information about the identity and purity of plant extracts.
