Historic building and heritage survey service is a professional service aimed at comprehensively assessing and protecting historic buildings and cultural heritage through systematic investigation, documentation, and analysis. This service involves in-depth research on the historical background, architectural style, building materials, structural characteristics of buildings, as well as the historical value, cultural significance, and social impact of cultural heritage. By utilizing modern technology such as drone aerial photography, 3D scanning, and virtual reality, the service team can accurately capture the exterior and interior structures of historic buildings, providing a scientific basis for subsequent restoration, preservation, and reuse. Additionally, this service involves interpreting laws, regulations, conservation policies, and international conventions related to cultural heritage to ensure that historic buildings and cultural heritage are protected legally and effectively.

United States market for Historic Building and Heritage Survey Service is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.
