Abstracts

The report requires updating with new data and is sent in 48 hours after order is placed.

Homoharringtonine is an alkaloid obtained from the Tricuspidaceae plant, Tritaxus, or plants of the same genus. It has an inhibitory effect on the incorporation of 3H-labeled asparagine into proteins, and it also has an effect on the incorporation of 3H-labeled thymidine into DNA. Homoharringtonine can also induce cell differentiation, increase the content of cAMP, and inhibit glycoprotein synthesis. Under the electron microscope, it can be seen that the chromatin concentrates and condenses toward the edge of the nucleus, forms chromosome clumps and bulges out of the nucleus, develops into 'litter bodies' where the nucleus separates, and finally the nucleus fragments. After intravenous injection of 3H-labeled homoharringtonine to rats, 15 minutes later the radioactivity was distributed in the kidney, liver, bone marrow, heart, and gastrointestinal tract.

The global market for Homoharringtonine is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2021 to reach US$ million by 2028, exhibiting a CAGR of % during 2022-2028. Keeping in mind the uncertainties of COVID-19 and Russia-Ukraine War, we are continuously tracking and evaluating the direct as well as the indirect influence of the pandemic on different end use sectors. These insights are included in the report as a major market contributor.

For the treatment of acute myeloid leukemia, combined with VCR, Ara-C, and prednisone, can improve the curative effect. It also has a certain effect on acute monocytic leukemia and malignant lymphoma. It can also be used for polycythemia vera, chronic myelogenous leukemia and promyelocytic leukemia.
