Abstracts

The global Hospitality Procurement Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 2156 million in 2025 to US$ 3324 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.5% from 2026 to 2032.

To address the pain points faced by the hotel industry in material procurement, such as fragmented supply chains, difficulties in quality control, and high cost pressures, hotel procurement services have emerged. With the advancement of chain and standardization in the global hotel industry, this service has gradually developed into a crucial professional field supporting hotel operations since the late 20th century. Currently, hotel procurement services have evolved into an integrated service system covering multiple categories such as guest room supplies, catering ingredients, cleaning supplies, and equipment, integrating supplier management, centralized procurement, quality inspection, and logistics distribution. It is widely used in star-rated hotels, chain brands, resorts, and guesthouses, effectively reducing procurement costs, ensuring material quality, and improving hotel operational efficiency—a professional supply chain solution.

Hotel procurement services are undergoing a transformation from a 'cost center' to a 'value creator.' Enterprises need to enhance their competitiveness through technological integration (such as AI + big data), ecosystem building (supply chain platform integration), and green practices (environmentally friendly materials + circular economy). In the future, with the deepening integration of culture and tourism and the upgrading of consumer demand, the industry will develop towards 'high efficiency, high transparency and sustainability' to meet the full-scenario needs from high-end customization to economical standardization. At the same time, it will need to address challenges such as supply chain flexibility and cost control to promote the high-quality development of the industry.
