The global Industrial Equipment Certification market size is predicted to grow from US$ 2105 million in 2025 to US$ 3243 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.4% from 2026 to 2032.

Industrial Equipment Certification refers to the service provided by third-party or authorized organizations to test, inspect, audit, and assess the compliance of industrial machinery, electrical equipment, pressure equipment, explosion-proof equipment, lifting equipment, automation equipment, production lines, and key components in accordance with international, regional, or national standards, and to issue certification certificates or conformity marks. It is mainly used to prove that the equipment meets market access requirements in terms of safety, reliability, electromagnetic compatibility, environmental adaptability, energy efficiency, and regulatory compliance.

The global industrial equipment certification industry is developing steadily. With the advancement of global trade integration and the continuous improvement of safety, environmental protection, and energy efficiency regulations in various regions, the compliance requirements for industrial equipment are becoming increasingly stringent, creating a sustained and stable demand for certification and testing. The transformation and upgrading of the manufacturing industry, the widespread application of intelligent manufacturing and high-end equipment are leading to a continuous enrichment of equipment categories, forcing certification services to extend to more niche scenarios. Enterprises are increasingly emphasizing product compliance and market access efficiency, preferring one-stop, cross-regional comprehensive certification services, driving the continuous expansion of the service boundaries of third-party organizations. At the same time, the demand for certification related to green and low-carbon, safe production, electromagnetic compatibility, and intelligent equipment is rapidly increasing. The industry is gradually transforming towards standardized, internationalized, and digitalized service models. The urgent need for compliance and overseas expansion are jointly driving the long-term positive development of the industry.
