The global Industrial Floor Sweeper Rental market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1189 million in 2025 to US$ 1416 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 2.6% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2025, global Industrial Floor Sweeper Rental reached approximately 4 million units, with an average global rental price of around US$ 300 per unit. An industrial floor sweeper rental is a short-term or long-term leasing service that allows businesses to use heavy-duty floor sweeping equipment without purchasing it. These machines are designed to clean large indoor or outdoor areas by collecting dust, debris, dirt, and trash efficiently. The gross profit margin of the Industrial Floor Sweeper Rental business typically ranges between 35% and 60%, depending on several operational and market factors. The Industrial Floor Sweeper Rental market refers to the commercial sector that provides temporary access to heavy-duty floor sweeping equipment for industrial, commercial, and municipal users. This market serves warehouses, manufacturing plants, logistics centers, construction sites, parking facilities, and large public spaces that require efficient cleaning of expansive floor areas. Driven by the need to reduce capital expenditure, increase operational flexibility, and access well-maintained modern equipment, organizations increasingly prefer renting walk-behind and ride-on industrial sweepers instead of purchasing them. Rental services typically include equipment maintenance, technical support, and flexible rental terms ranging from short-term projects to long-term contracts. Growth in industrialization, infrastructure development, and stricter cleanliness and safety standards continues to support steady demand for industrial floor sweeper rental solutions worldwide. The Industrial Floor Sweeper Rental industry value chain encompasses multiple interconnected stages, from equipment manufacturing to end-user service delivery. It begins with equipment manufacturers, who design and produce a range of floor sweepers, including walk-behind and ride-on models, along with associated consumables such as brushes, filters, and batteries. Next, distributors and rental companies acquire these machines and manage fleet operations, including inventory management, maintenance, refurbishment, and logistics. Rental companies also provide value-added services such as delivery, operator training, technical support, and flexible rental contracts tailored to short-term projects or long-term industrial needs. On the demand side, end-users span warehouses, manufacturing plants, logistics hubs, construction sites, and large public facilities that require efficient cleaning of extensive floor areas. Supporting segments include aftermarket services, such as spare parts, maintenance, and equipment upgrades, as well as technology providers offering fleet management, tracking, and scheduling software to optimize utilization. Overall, the industry value chain integrates manufacturing, distribution, rental operations, and ancillary services to deliver cost-effective, flexible, and reliable floor cleaning solutions to industrial and commercial customers.
