Along with the fast development of Cold Chain Logistics, the demand of Cold Chain Packaging is increasing significantly. Major factors driving the growth of the market are growing governmental emphasis on the supply chain efficiency of pharmaceuticals sector, increasing demand for temperature-sensitive drugs, rising demand for better food quality and need to reduce food wastage, growing demand for generic drugs owing to higher accessibility.

Asia-Pacific is the largest market of Cold Chain Logistics, followed by North America and Europe. The market in APAC is expected to grow at the highest CAGR between 2023 and 2029. The highest growth of the market in APAC can be attributed to the high demand for quality food in urban areas, extensive government vaccination drives being carried out in countries such as China and India, and major investments in the cold chain industry in India and China. All these factors are pushing the demand for cold chain Logistics solutions in APAC.

Based on end-user vertical, Food and Beverages segment is expected to remain dominant throughout the forecast period. Followed by Food and Beverages, Pharma & Healthcare segment is expected to gain significant share in terms of revenue contribution. Food quality and durability are directly related to the effective maintenance of cold chain operations. The dependence of the food & beverages industry on cold chain packaging has been gradually increasing. The rising demand for high-quality food products has resulted in the growth of the cold chain packaging market for the food & beverages application. The growing demand for meat and seafood owing to the dietary changes of people in various countries is driving the use of cold chain packaging in this application.
